

Neuro diverse individuals are 7x more likely to be victims of abuse.

We can take steps to keep them safe by teaching them about healthy sexuality and relationships.

Examples of abuse prevention strategies

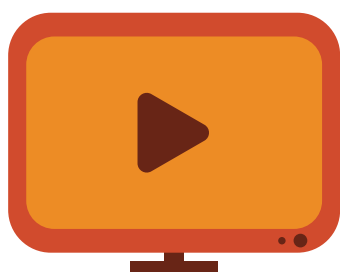

Teach and respect a personal sense of privacy and boundaries

Use correct and accurate terminology about body parts, sexuality, and relationships.

Role model asking for permission before touching.

Use examples in media as teachable moments about relationships.

As parents, care workers, and front-line staff, you play an important role in supporting those in your care to build healthy relationships and thrive while staying safe.

Find information, resources, and support at mylifemybody.org